KEYNOTE TOPICS

The Unspoken Edge

How the way you communicate determines the career you build

Most professionals spend their careers developing expertise that gets them to the top table — and then discover that what keeps them there is something entirely different.

Best for: Leadership conferences · Annual away days · All-organisation events

The Trust Deficit

Why people disengage — and the communication habits that make them stay

Talented people do not leave organisations because of strategy. They leave because of how they were communicated with.

Best for: Leadership development conferences · HR summits · Senior leader events

Finding Your Voice

The communication habits of leaders who last

There is a particular kind of silence in professional life — the silence of people who have the expertise and the insight but have been taught that their voice takes up too much room.

Best for: Women's leadership events · Diversity and inclusion conferences · Senior professional development days

The Five Conversations That Define a Leader

A HACKS Code masterclass

Every leadership career is shaped by a handful of conversations — the ones where trust was built or broken. This keynote works through the five most consequential and shows exactly how to handle each one.

Best for: Leadership development days · Future leaders programmes · Senior professional cohorts
